

CONFEREES ON TARIFF BEGIN RACE FOR TIME

Measure Must Be Ready Within Two Weeks or Elections Will Intervene.

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON.
International News Service.

Tariff harmonizers of the House and Senate began a race against time today to complete a "harmony" tariff bill before Congress adjourns for the November elections.

Unless the measure is completed in conference in two weeks, it was said, there will be no tariff bill laid before the people before election. Administration leaders planned to hold the two branches of Congress in session, passing upon the bonus and President Harding's coal measures, until the conferees finished their work and then rush the tariff through to final enactment.

Two thousand changes in rates remain to be worked out. All rates are being considered on the foreign valuation plan, although a decision on adoption of this plan has been postponed until all other matters are settled.

Two other fights also loomed. These included the Bureau rates on chemicals and dyestuffs, which amounted in effect to an embargo, and the listing of various lumber items on the free list. In both instances, House conferees were opposed to the action taken by the Senate. Fearing a prolonged argument, however, both subjects were postponed for a later decision.

PLAIN LITTLE MARY IS SWELL SINCE HER TRIP ABROAD

One of Mobility, Says Fay King, Now of Nobility.

By FAY KING.

Geel! wot Europe has done to that baby.

Before she looked herself over on one of those wave cutters she acted just like any nice girl who is a member of the nobility, but since she lapped those old historic spots over there she's come back acting like one of the nobility.

I remember in the old days when you got a swell feed for about 60 cents in a nice little dumpe where there was a jar of pickles and oyster crackers on the table when you came in, so you could cut your appetite a little while you was waiting for the tray totter to waltz in with the eats, she was just like other folks and liked her corn beef and cabbage.

But oh-la-la! You ought to see that spangle mill with a menu now. If they've got anything but bread and butter down in plain English she thinks it's a hot dog stand.

CUT OUT LANGUAGE.
She's cut out all her language and has an onslaught of foreign gibbering that sounds like a ventriloquist coming out of ether.

She was plain little old Mary Ann till she lapped the Tulleries, and now she's Marie Antoinette.
She'll get it in the neck, too, if she springs that stuff around any of her old Irish swains!

You couldn't talk to her for five minutes in the old days without her dragging the whole of Europe into the conversation, but now she never mentions the word.
In fact, if you didn't know where she was talking about you'd think she might be referring to Jersey.

IRISH SLAYINGS CONDEMNED BY BISHOP CURLEY

American Prelate in Athlone Voices Protest Against Campaign of Irregulars.

Interviewed at his home in Athlone, Ireland, Archbishop Michael J.
Curley, of the Baltimore archdiocese, is reported to have condemned the murders committed by the irregulars. He is quoted as saying:
"Feeling that I can give expression to the sentiments of millions of Americans, I have no hesitation in saying that the action of the Republicans meets with nothing but condemnation from Ireland's friends in America."

The archbishop probably was referring to the assassination of Michael Collins, commander-in-chief of the Irish army. Continuing, the archbishop said:

"It is sad to find the hated regime of murder and destruction that was carried on by the black and tans continued by wild-eyed enthusiasts. If these things are done because they love Ireland, what would they do if they hated her?"

The archbishop was born in Athlone and has been a lifelong friend of John McCormack, the famous tenor, also born there.

'HERB' WRITES TO MOTHER OF DOROTHY CLARK

Your Suspicions Are Without Foundation," He Says.
Warns of Cabarets.

The series of love letters from Herbert Rawlinson, screen star, to his child sweetheart, Dorothy Clark, actress, was concluded yesterday with the publication of his final letter to her, showing he was reconciled to his losing fight to retain her love. He had come to realize that the differences in their ages—twenty years—was too great to overcome. He told her he was like a father to her, and gave her parental advice about studying. Also he advised:
"Don't get married." He was married himself—unhappily so.

Rawlinson fell in love with Dorothy when she was eleven.
Dorothy's mother early this year started suit against him in Los Angeles for $200,000 damages, alleging that he had done her daughter an injustice. Dorothy for several months denied it, but is now backing her mother against the actress. The love letters published in The Washington Times will figure in the suit.

Meanwhile Dorothy got married to a piano salesman in New England, but is seeking annulment on the ground of nonage. She is only seventeen now.

During the time that "Herb" Rawlinson was writing ardent letters to Dorothy he was also communicating his emotions to Dorothy's mother by means of letters and telegrams in which he consulted with her about the welfare of his child sweetheart.

One of these letters, written from his dressing room in January, reads thus:

"My Dear Ethel:
"I received your sweet letter yesterday, and I hasten to answer to let you know that your suspicions are without foundation.
"I feel toward you and Dorothy just as I have always felt, and please do not think differently.
The ONLY reason I have not written is on account of my work. You know what making a serial means.
The work is continuous, it never stops. We are a bit behind on our schedule and we have been working nights in order to catch up, so that I am pretty tired and have not the ambition to write, as I am so tired when I get home.

Sweet Dorothy.

"Please don't doubt me, Ethel, as I give you both a great deal of thought at all times. I never cease to think of our few precious moments together before I left for the East, and many times do I think of Dot, as the sweet little kid she was when I left, and how perfectly adorable she must be now.

"I received a box of candy from her and I appreciated the thought of her sending it. You tell me she still loves me dearly, and that makes me very happy.

"I, too, love the kid very much, but it is as you say, possibly our being separated is the best for both.

Only a Child.

"Don't for God's sake misconstrue my meaning, Ethel. She is only a child and I admired you for what you said in your letter about the thoroughbred, and you are right, too.
It's strange, but I have thought so many times in worrying over Dot, I have worried about her terribly. And I am sorry for what I said about Mr.
S., and I'm glad he's proven so loyal.

"I am glad Dot did not get the engagement. I really think she is better off where she is. And, Ethel, if you possibly can, keep her out of cabarets. My God, they are terrible!
I know. Of course, I realize that she has to do something, and to waste her ability is all wrong.

"I have promised you to help her all I can, and I will send you some money very shortly for the dancing lessons you want her to have. I am up to my neck at present, income tax and God knows what, but I'll pull out O. K. shortly.

all I can, and I will send you some
lessons you want her to have. I am up to my neck at present, income
tax and God knows what, but I'll

"Write me again, 'HERE.'"
"Always,"

On Monday, telegrams and letters from Herbert Rawlinson to Dorothy Clark's mother were published, winding up the entire series of letters written by the screen star.

DANCING, POKER THEATER TO GET METHODIST O. K.

Prohibition of 1872 Will Soon Be Cut From Discipline List, Prediction.

By Universal Service.
NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Dancing, heater-going and card playing will, years hence, be dropped from the sanctified list of the Methodist churches.

Assurances of such action in 1924 at the Methodist conference, held every four years, was given by J.
Henry Smythe, Jr., a New York publisher, and prominent layman in the Methodist Church, in addresses yesterday before the conventions of the International and American Associations of Masters of Dancing.

The amusement question, Mr.
Smythe told the mentors of terpsi-chore, had been a lively topic of contention ever since the Methodist church issued a ban on dancing, heater-going, and card playing in 1872.

For the past few years, he said, a movement calling for the lifting of this ban had rapidly grown throughout the country, and this change, conforming with the spirit of the times, is inevitable.

Leaders of the church have told him, Mr. Smythe declared, that if the 1924 conference should by chance fail to agree to do away with these three prohibitions such action will surely follow the amalgamation of the Methodist Church, North, and the Methodist Church, South, expected in the near future.

When these two churches fuse, Mr.
Smythe said, a new book of discipline will be necessary, and without doubt the 1872 anti-amusement and other blue laws will then be eliminated.

The locomotive rolled over, while five coaches, containing about eighty passengers were derailed without serious injury to any of the occupants.
